Tonal Plan Tone and Texture Voice Leading Melodic Texture It is a Mixolydian scale. It can be analyzed as consisting of three stepwise motion inversions of the scale pattern. G \flat -E-G \flat -C-G \flat -D-G \flat To find the tonic, we follow the motion of the root: G \flat to E, which is the lowest note in the scale, and find the motion G \flat to C, which is the highest. We note that the E (lowest note) moves down two semitones (to E \flat). The next step is to look at the motion from the highest note in the scale down to the lowest note (G \flat to D). This will reveal that the E \flat moves down five semitones. Therefore, we see that the tonic is G \flat and the scale motion is a stepwise motion inversion of G \flat -E-G \flat -C-G \flat -D-G \flat . To find the other tonic, we travel up the scale and find that the next highest note is the note C. It moves up five semitones to C \sharp , which is the second highest note in the scale. We find that the tonic is C and the scale pattern is: C \sharp -G \sharp -C-G \sharp -D-G \sharp -E-G \sharp -C To find the other tonic, we travel up the scale and find that the next highest note is the note B \flat . It moves up seven semitones to F \sharp . We find that the tonic is F \sharp and the scale pattern is: F \sharp -G \sharp -F \sharp -F \sharp -E \sharp -G \sharp -F \sharp To find the other tonic, we travel up the scale and find that the next highest note is the note E \flat . It moves up nine semitones to A \flat . We find that the tonic is A \flat and the scale pattern is: A \flat -G \flat -A \flat -E \flat -G \flat -F \flat -G \flat -A \flat To find the other tonic, we travel up the scale

The same applies to the key of G-flat major. The notes of the Gb major scale are: Gb Ab Bb Cb Db Eb F. Chords in any major key follow the Maj min ... Maj min pattern, but a few flats and sharps are added to them (for example, Maj min in D sharp major). In order to determine how many additional steps there are in the scale and the key it contains, we can recall that each diacritical (unsuccessful) chord has four sharps (sharp, three sharps and one F) and one F sharp.## ##Dec 2, 2020 " Chords in the key of Gb Major I = Gb Major ii = A minor iii = B minor IV = C major V = D major VI = E minor vii° = F diminished..
