solitarius. 1. The nucleus of the tractus solitarius (NTS) is a key relay station in the control of cardiovascular and respiratory function. 2. This nucleus has been modelled as a network of two sub-nuclei: the compact and the non-compact. 3. The compact sub-nucleus receives projections from several forebrain nuclei, including the lateral hypothalamus, the paraventricular nucleus, and the nucleus of the solitary tract, and projects via the reticular formation to other sub-nuclei that control cardiovascular and respiratory function. 4. The non-compact sub-nucleus receives projections mainly from a different set of forebrain nuclei, including the ventral te
