I have this issue with my code : I am trying to call the method "hello" in a service which is defined in my constructor to make a get request to the endpoint. Service definition : public class HelloService : IHttpService { private readonly IHttpRepository _repository; public HelloService(IHttpRepository repository) { _repository = repository; } public Task Hello(HttpContext httpContext) { var request = HttpContext.Request; var contentType = request.ContentType; // The method is not available var response = "Hello "+request.ContentLength; return Task.FromResult(response); } } It's not necessary to be able to use web api for this example. This is just an sample I made for testing purposes. My webapp.cs looks like : public void ConfigureServices(IServiceCollection services) { services.AddMvc(); services.AddSingleton(); services.AddSingleton(); } And finally my controller : [HttpGet("hello")] public string Hello() { return " 1cdb36666d
