I made a minimal user interface. I want it to be smooth and animation is okay. But it is almost perfect. I want to add one thing. When user presses SysReq key the program should delay by one frame, so for example when they press SysReq key, they don't see only black screen and they saw a flash of colors. I haven't used any animation library. Is it possible? I'm still new in JavaScript, so if you wrote a simple example or video explaining it I will be very grateful. A: You could do this by simply disabling the sysreq key when the page is loaded. So the best way would be to use document.ready inside a script tag and then place that inside a div (as CSS is required): document.addEventListener('DOMContentLoaded', function() { document.getElementById('container').className = "disabled"; }); And then also on the javascript side you could change the content of that div by inserting a semicolon into the script. Spinal muscular atrophy (SMA) is a genetic disorder characterized by progressive atrophy and weakness of skeletal muscles. SMA is associated with degenerative changes in the spinal cord and brain stem. Degeneration of anterior horn cells and lateral corticospinal tracts of the spinal cord have been suggested to be responsible for the loss of motor skills. Thus, patients with SMA usually require assisted ventilation and wheelchair confinement. We report a patient who had a mild form of SMA, resembling hereditary motor neuropathy type IA (HMSN IA). The patient has gone through puberty and menarche, and no abnormality in the ocular muscles was observed. Magnetic resonance imaging of the brain revealed no evidence of degeneration. The muscle weakness of this patient is not so severe as to be a wheelchair-bound patient./// // Generated by class-dump 3.5 (64 bit) (Debug version compiled Oct 15 2018 10:31:50). // // class-dump is Copyright (C) 1997-1998, 2000-2001, 2004-2015 by Steve Nygard. //
