* The Processing Layers Panel (Figure 5-1, image on page 182) enables you to view and edit multiple layers, and it provides information such as layer name, layer opacity, pixel dimensions, and the current blending mode. Toggling layer visibility on and off is also done with the Layers Panel. Figure 5-1. When you click the icon for a layer to bring up the Layers Panel, check the Relative to Previous panel to see all the layers you've already created; it's also good for knowing what layers are currently visible so you can hide the ones you don't want to use. A quick way to toggle a layer's visibility on and off is with the V key (for Visibility). Press V to toggle the visibility of a layer, or simply press Ctrl+T (Windows) or -T (Mac) to view and edit multiple layers. These layers are sorted by name, which helps you recognize which one you've already used. * The History Panel (Figure 5-2, image on next page) is a panel that lets you undo and redo any changes to the image. It's also where you view any actions you've taken, as described in the next section. The History Panel is where you select files for opening with Photoshop, so you can also open any file from your hard drive or a thumb drive without leaving Photoshop. Figure 5-2. The History Panel is where you can undo and redo any changes you've made to the image. * The Layers panel (Figure 5-3, image on following page) makes it easy to see layers one through six, and it has a drop-down menu that enables you to open up all the Layers panel's existing layers at once. In addition, it enables you to edit Layers—you can crop, rotate, or blur layers, for example. Figure 5-3. You use the Layers panel to combine layers and make them visible. It enables you to preview all the layers, and it enables you to see more options for combining layers. The Layers panel has a drop-down menu to open all the Layers panel's layers at once.

Design, synthesis, in vitro antitumor activity, and computational studies of bisindolylacetylenes. A series of novel bisindolylacetylenes have been synthesized and evaluated for their activity against one colorectal (HT-29) and two breast cancer (MDA-MB-453 and T47D) cell lines. The majority of the compounds were found to be extremely active against HT-29 and T47D cells, with IC(50) values in the low micromolar range. Tumor cell growth inhibition and induction of apoptosis in these cell lines were associated with activation of the p53 pathway, as well as caspase-3-like activity. These results were further supported by the high-throughput cocomputational simulations which showed the favorable interaction energy (hydrogen bond, van der Waals, and dispersion) of the compounds with the p53 protein.

Q: React - Store and retrieve userDataStore variable in login function I am trying to build a login function to a reactJS project using setInterval and storing the username and password in a userDataStore. I then want to retrieve them and send them to the server to validate. I have a working login function using localStorage and I tried to implement this using the userDataStore. I kept getting the error: TypeError: data is undefined at RegSubscriber.registrationRegister (home_new.js:44) at HTMLLIElement. (home_new.js:44) at EventEmitter.emit (events.js:133) at HTMLLIElement. (home_new.js:44) at EventEmitter.emit (events.js:133) at EventEmitter._emit (events.js:166) at EventEmitter._tick (node.js:383) at Timeout._onTimeout (node.js:430) My code is as follows: // store user to dataStore var dataStore = { data: { username: "", password: ""},

Q: Get a list of dictionaries from a list of objects I'm coding a small component manager for my game engine, and I want to be able to run a function on each object in a list, and return a list of dictionaries with information from all objects in the list. Here's my object class: class Component(object): def get_info(self): return { 'type': self.type, 'shape': self.shape, 'data_type': self.data_type, 'instance_group': (get_instances()), 'instance': self.instance, 'position': self.position, 'matrix_loc': self.matrix_loc } def __init__(self, type, shape, data_type): self.type = type self.shape = shape self.data_type = data_type self.instance = None self.matrix_loc = None self.position = None

And here's an example of an object in the list: [{Component('box','square', 'normal'), component_override=0, Instance(array([4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9]), array([3, 3, 3, 3, 3, 3]), 1)}, {Component('box','square', 'normal'), component_override=1, Instance(array([4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9]), array([3, 3, 3, 3, 3, 3]), 0)}, {Component('box','square', 'normal'), component_override=2, Instance(array([3, 3, 3, 3, 3,
